Vocals; Glyn Walters - Bass; Ben Findlay - Guitar and Jer Griffin on Drums. After playing our local town Langport, twice, and the Stonehouse in Bristol, Jon was thrown out (for various reasons) and Mark Roddie took over on vocals becoming a permanent member and main lyric writer for the band. In August '81 we mutually parted company with Jer and Fergus - Flash Gordon joined the ranks. Since then we have played more gigs in our area and have a fairly good following. In February, of this year, we released a tape entitled 'Attack the Cause' the tape costs £1 and a SAE, profits going towards new gear. Our influences include S.L.F., "Clash", "Beatles", "Black Sabbath". The Somerset music scene is O.K., but if you want a gig generally you have to organise and run it completely by yourselves. However, a good crowd is not always promised though we as a band have been lucky, but some local gigs I've been to have been very poorly attended. At the moment we are trying to get gigs further afield, but this is proving a problem, our real aim at the moment is just to get some gigs outside of Langport.

TERMINAL ILLITERACY(No.5)25p+SAE to Steve, 15 Lady Lea Horsley, Derby, DE2 5BNThe most obvious thing about TI this time is the way that doing the infamous 'My pet rabbit is an anarchist'has completely changed the attitude of eds. Steve & Greg, overall its better than the last one due to better expression etc. Includes lots of bands like Mutant Babies. Destructors, Twisted Nerve, X-S, Resistance 77 etc etc.

FINAL CURTAIN(No.5)is basically the same as no.4(mentioned elsewhere)but is better I think. Id be here all day if I had to list all the bands so send for it and find out yourself. 25p+SAE to Plebb, 14 ~~15~~ Maycroft Ave, Grays, Essex, RM17 6AH.

[al]ready dead

[f]or fools. It is the people who try to [ke]ep us dead inside who are the most [de]ad. The machine-world they build [co]ntrols them too, controls them totally [be]cause they think it's their own.

[Be] yourself. Be yourself, and you break [ou]t of their death-machine. You can [on]ly be yourself, or a collaborator in [de]ath. The mind-fucking machine will [gri]nd dry without the sweat of your [bo]dies. Refuse to be ruled, and rulers [los]e power. Refuse to be afraid, and they [ca]nnot frighten.

Britain's already a major target-mainly because of the number of Bombs stationed here.

H-Bombs are mind-control. They kill people a little bit every day. "What's the point of living if they're going to drop it on us?" "Life is so shit-awful anyway, why struggle to stay alive?" "Why fight the Bomb if we're not really living" "Why fight to be alive if the Bomb could end it?" Round and round and down and we've heard it all before.

[S]tate control

[S]tate control is the name of the game. [I]f they get us into a war, the state fears [a] rebellion. Damn right there would be, [w]ith the total fucking stupidity of the [s]tate, of all states, written in mushroom [c]louds all over the sky so no-one could [m]iss it. What else could they expect?

[T]ake back our lives

[T]hey also fear a rebellion to take their [e]vil war-toys away. They're getting one. [W]hile we rebel with marches and music [a]nd words they'll fight us back through [t]he propaganda of "popular" media—[t]elevision and daily papers. When [m]illions of people rebel in their homes [a]nd streets and workplaces the state's all [p]repared to scurry underground like [s]hits in the sewers. What are we going to [d]o about it?

And what do we get? We get the chance [t]o buy a pamphlet if we want. A [p]amphlet that tells us to whitewash our [w]indows and go hide under the kitchen [t]able.

[T]hat's going to be hard. Removing the [w]eapons that give rulers power means [r]emoving the power of rulers. Not just [t]aking away their war-toys, but taking [a]way their power to make them. Taking [a]way their dreams of death and making [o]ur dreams of life real.
